Historic Center of the Canaries

1: Cathedral of the Canaries

The Santa Iglesia Catedral-Basílica de Canarias is located in the historic city center. It was constructed by the Catholic Monarchs in 1487, and is considered to be the most important architectural landmark in the city. An elevator has been installed in the south tower which gives visitors access to the top of the cathedral, from which you can see breathtaking views of the city and harbor.

2: Columbus House Museum

The Columbus House Museum can be found in the Vegueta neighborhood in Las Palmas of the Grand Canary Island. This museum houses the history of the city, with paintings ranging from the 16th century to the 19th century. The majority of the works in the museum pay tribute to Pre-Columbian America and the voyages of Christopher Columbus.

Other Places of Interest

3: Viera y Clavijo Botanical Garden

This botanical garden is the largest in Spain, but the locals call it the “jardín canario”. The garden is mainly populated by flowers and plants endemic to the seven islands of the Canary Archipelago, including species from another cluster of islands called, ‘Islas de la Macaronesia’. It is completely free to visit the garden and it is open to the public everyday of the week.

4: Colonial Houses of Triana

This neighborhood is centered around one of the major streets in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, called Triana. Triana is a pedestrian street and a popular shopping center, where a myriad of clothing stores, bookstores, and electronic shops can be found. Many people enjoy walking along the street and admiring the different architectural styles of the buildings.

Typical Local Food

5: Mikele

Mikele is a restaurant located on the street Ruiz Alda, a pedestrian street known for its many local restaurants. The menu at Mikele is based on traditional Spanish dishes, including many dishes typical of the islands. Mikele is known for its excellent service and large portions for relatively low prices.

6: El Dorado Las Canteras

This restaurant is located on the stunning beaches of Las Canteras. Here guests can enjoy authentic homemade Canarian food, while experiencing marvelous views of the ocean. People can feel the ocean breeze as they eat on the terrace located just a few feet from the sea. We recommend that you try some typical Canarian dishes such as, gofio escaldado or ropa vieja de pulpo.

Canarian Tapas

7: La Tasca Las 7 Viejas

This restaurant is situated in the Vegueta neighborhood, a lively part of town where every Thursday people celebrate the “ruta del pincho”. In this local hotspot you can enjoy the best “pinchos” or skewer snacks in the area.

8: Harbor Market

Harbor Market is a gastronomic marketplace very close to the Las Canteras beach. In this marketplace you can find different stalls with a variety of local and international food. In addition to the traditional products found here, visitors can also enjoy international delicacies. This is an ideal place to walk around, taste some food and enjoy a drink.
