1: Teide National Park

This is the most visited national park in Europe, and was declared to be a UNESCO world heritage site. Visiting this park is an incredible experience, where you can see the most natural diversity in the world. Additionally, Teide is in a peripheral area of protection and is surrounded by another national park named La Corona Forestal, which is an extension of the autonomous community of protected parks on the Canary Islands.

2: Drago Milenario

Known as Drago Milenario de Icod de los Vinos, this tree is one of the largest dragon trees in the world and was declared a national monument in 1917. The tree is located in the Drago Milenario Park, where visitors can walk along hidden pathways or through beautiful gardens. The park has a picnic area that visitors can enjoy throughout the day, and there are guides that specialize in the wildlife of the Canary Islands who can answer any questions you may have during your visit.

4: Loro Park

This park is situated in the Puerto de la Cruz and is 13 hectares in area. The park has an aquarium, a “Thai village”, an orchid garden and an adventure area, but if that’s not enough the park also has marine shows that include dolphins, whales, and sea lions. Visitors can also see birds from Asia and Australia, including penguins. If you are traveling with children this is a must see!

5: Cliffs of the Giants

Situated on the west coast of Tenerife, these cliffs are some of the most spectacular views on the island. If you decide to visit we suggest that you go scuba diving, kayaking, or take a boat ride so that you can see the wild dolphins and whales.
